THE SANTA FE LOAN.

The following is the prospectus of the new Santa Fe Loan, which under date May 7th, was offered on the London market. It will doubtless interest many of our readers, both here and in Rosario, to read the terms &c, upon which this new loan was proposed to the public; but although not in receipt of any telegrams from London on the subject, we believe the subscriptions did not amount to enough to float it, and consequently the whole amount is held by the Syndicate that took up the business.

The letter of Sr Bengolea, the special London agent of Santa Fe, referred to in the prospectus, is not published in the Times, and being a most important paper, we are rather surprised at the omission.

Santa Fe is of all the provinces of the Argentine Confederation the most progressive in colonies and agriculture. There are at present seven large ocean steamers loading wheat and maize at the Santa Fe ports, for Europe, an event unprecedented in this country; and at the rate the colonies are marching on in Santa Fe, soon the whole province will be under the plough. A foreign debt for a million sterling for a province so progressive is a mere fleabite, and whatever hitch has arisen to check the successful launching of the loan we attribute more to market influences than to any want of confidence in a province that owes so little and works and produces so much.

Nevertheless, the check this loan has received should be accepted as a timely lesson and warning to the Plate, that money at the moment is not so easily to be borrowed in London, as many in Buenos Aires think; and as for other provinces (if we except B. Aires) attempting to make a London loan, the thing is not to be thought of. We mention this, since for the last week there has been a current rumour in the market that the province of Entre Rios is about to pass a new loan law, and send a special commissioner to London to negotiate it. We hardly think the effort would meet with even the smallest success. Entre Rios and provinces like it, if they want money, must borrow in this market, which we fear is equally difficult. However, the subjoined prospectus of the Santa Fe Loan will form good reading matter for the provinces, and we hope to see the Diario publish it in Spanish; it will then take the run of all the papers.

Argentine Republic, Santa Fe six per cent Sterling Loan, 1883, authorized by Law, dated 14th March, 1883. Issue of £1,024,590 in bonds of £1,000, £500, and £100, part of a maximum loan of $7,000,000. Principal repayable 1st May, 1913, unless previously redeemed by the sinking fund. Interest payable at the counting-house of Messrs. Morton, Rose, and Co. half. yearly, on 1st May and 1st November. First coupon for six months' interest payable 1st November 1883. Issue price 90 per cent, payable as follows:

£5 per cent on application.
15 per cent on allotment.
25 per cent on 20th June.
25 per cent on 1st August.
20 per cent on 15th September.

£90

Payments under discount can be made on any of the above dates at the Bank of England rate of the day.

The bonds of the Loan of 1874 will be received as cash in payment in full or of any instalment falling due before 1st July.

Messrs Morton, Rose, and Co. are prepared to receive Applications for the above-mentioned Bonds.

The Loan is issued under authority of the Law of 14th March, 1883, for the purpose of providing funds to increase the capital of the Provincial Bank of Santa Fe, and also to pay off the amount outstanding of the Loan of 1874, viz:—£208,100, bearing seven per cent interest, with a sinking fund of 2½ per cent, which, by the provisions of the General Bond, can be redeemed at any time. Due notice has been given that these bonds will be paid off on the 1st July, after which date interest ceases. They will, however, be received in payment of the subscription for this Loan.

The Provincial Bank of Santa Fe was established in 1874 with a capital of £200,000, and it has declared a dividend of 16 per cent per annum for the last four years, after providing for the statutory reserves. The principal and interest of this Loan is a special charge upon the assets of the Bank as at present existing, or which may be acquired with the proceeds of this Loan, and is also secured upon the general revenue of the province and the proceeds of direct contributions and sales of Government lands; but from the prosperity and success of the Bank, with a comparatively small capital, it may reasonably be expected that the projected increase in its capital will augment its profits to such an extent as to render any recourse to the Provincial Government improbable.

The great development of the province, the increase of population and value of property, has decided the Government to assist the Provincial Bank with further capital.

The province of Santa Fe is one of the most fertile and productive in the Argentine Republic, and is attracting large numbers of foreign emigrants yearly.

The increase in the value of property is shown by the fact that, without any fresh taxation, the revenue (exclusive of Customs duties belonging to the National Government), which in 1882 amounted to 700,000 hard dollars, will, according to the new valuation, yield about 1,200,000 hard dollars.

The city of Rosario, the headquarters of the Provincial Bank, ranks as the second most important city in the Argentine Republic, and has a population of about 50,000, and the port of Rosario has facilities for admitting vessels of the largest tonnage.

A cumulative sinking fund of 1 per cent per annum will be established and applied towards the redemption of the Loan, by purchases in the market under par, or by drawings at par, but with liberty if the bonds are above par to invest the sinking fund in other security.

Attention is called to the official letter from Señor Don Santiago Maria Bengolea, duly authorized Agent of the province of Santa Fe, enclosed with the prospectus.

Applications must be made in the prescribed form, and lodged at the counting-house of Messrs Morton, Rose and Co., with a deposit of £5 per cent on the nominal amount applied for.

The allotment will be made as soon as possible after the close of the subscription. In cases where the amount allotted is less than was applied for, the balance of the deposit will be applied towards the payment due on allotment, and any surplus will be returned to the subscriber. When no allotment is made, the amount of deposit will be returned in full. In default of payment of the respective instalments at their due dates, all previous payments will be liable to forfeiture.

Scrip certificates to bearer will be issued against allotment letters. The definitive bonds will be delivered after payment of the last instalment.

Translations of the laws authorizing the Loan, of the General Bond, and the report of the Provincial Bank for 1882, can be inspected at the office of Messrs Bompas, Bischoff, and Dodgson 4, Great Winchester-street, London, E. C.

APPALLING CATASTROPHE.

A TUG-BOAT BLOWN UP.

DREADFUL SCENES.

On Sunday morning another awful accident was added, here in Buenos Aires, to the long list of those recorded in various parts of the world during the first half of this year of catastrophes—1883. Little else was spoken of in the city throughout Sunday, the horrible effects and the nature of the dire accident impressing the most thoughtless with the truth of the solemn yet too often forgotten words—"In the midst of life we are in death." The particulars of this truly awful affair are as follows:—

The new tug-boat "Lydia," built and owned by the well-known firm of Schwartz, Brothers, was engaged on Sunday morning in towing up to Barracas Bridge the barge Emelia B., coal-laden, the property of D. B. Garay. The tow-rope was made fast to the barge at 9 a.m., and the ill-fated tug started on her last trip. The river was very high and rapid, and, on reaching the bridge, it was found impossible to pass under it, and the tug was made fast to one of the girders. For some time she and her charge lay there, hundreds of idlers lounging on the bridge looking at them, the steam gradually rising until 9.25 a.m.—and then ! ! !

The roar was if twenty pieces of artillery had been fired simultaneously. For a second the roar was followed by a breathless silence: people stopped suddenly in the streets as if struck by palsy; then they looked at each other, pale with fright, till the shrieks of the injured and the crash of falling glass from all the houses near the bridge, and the shower of iron debris of all kinds, told the sad tale for squares around. The "Lydia's" boiler had burst, killing the captain and five men on board her, also two on the barge and two people on the bridge, and injuring fourteen more, some in the most terrible manner. The police, the maritime authorities and several doctors were on the spot in a very short time, and set to work to assist the injured and collect the dead bodies. This was no easy task. Most of the men of the tug had been literally blown to pieces, and fragments of their bodies were picked up in all directions, in many cases two and even three hundred yards from the scene of the explosion. The captain of the tug, a Spaniard, named Reyes, was blown into the water and perished there, although a good swimmer—he was badly hurt in the left leg and right hand, which rendered it impossible for him to swim. The body of another of the crew was blown against the wall of Mr. Welsh's lime works—100 yards from the bridge—and literally smashed to bits, the legs flying a 100 yards farther, on to the kiln, the brains having been strewn about the "patio," and other parts of the body near the railway, three hundred yards from the bridge. This poor man's son, a boy of 14, was also killed, his corpse being found, awfully mutilated, two squares from the river. The engineer was blown a square off and his corpse smashed against a wall; all the men of the tug met more or less the same fate. Two of the men in the barge were killed, one being hurled against the Rivadavia Theatre, four squares away; the other perished in the water. Another corpse was found in South Barracas.

Some of the injured were removed in a desperate state. One, a negro servant boy, had both his eyes knocked out and the left side of his face torn away. Another boy of 10, son of a policeman, also had his face destroyed, and a piece of iron pierced his stomach. Another boy of 9 was also struck by a piece of iron and injured internally. Most of the others were injured in the head, some of them very dangerously.

The material damage was considerable, and extended to a radius of six squares from the scene of the disaster. Fragments of the tug and her exploded boiler flew and fell in all directions. The funnel of the tug flew off to the Southern Railway line, smashed the pavement in front of Mr. Mayano's quinta, knocked down several trees and a brick pillar, and then fell in the middle of the street. The crash of shatttered glass was tremendous for squares round, and several doors suffered from the iron hail. A whaleboat lying near the tug when she blew up, had her bowsprit torn away. The roof of Mr. Welsh's lime factory was smashed in by a piece of the boiler. One of the girders of the bridge was cut in two by a boiler plate. The clothes of the unfortunate victims were torn from their bodies by the force of the explosion, and were to be seen hanging from the telegraph and telephone wires. Still more awful, fragments of flesh were also to be seen in the same position.

A kind German subscriber sent us yesterday some debris of the tug for our museum. They were picked up a square from the bridge. One heavy boiler plate went so high in the air that its descent was plainly traced, and it cut a Eucalyptus in two before touching the ground. The corpse that fell in front of the theatre rebounded from the ground seven yards, and when picked up was all a pulp. A fragment of human flesh fell on the cow-catcher on an engine on the railway, and sickened the driver with horror. But we must refrain from any more of these heart-rending details. The causes assigned for the accident are many: but we believe there was not enough water in the boiler, and the engine pumping cold water into it caused the explosion. It is also said that there was no safety valve.

The awful sight presented by the neighbourhood of Barracas Bridge at 9½ a.m. on Sunday morning last, can never be forgotten by those who saw it: The roar of the explosion; the screams of the injured running away with blood streaming from them; the momentary pause of indecision by even strong men who had faced the perils of the sea and battle; the screams of affrighted women and children; and last and most terrible, the wailings of the relatives and friends of those who had been so suddenly and awfully hurled into eternity—all combined to form a scene such as Buenos Aires has never before witnessed, and, we trust, will never witness again.

Two incidents are mentioned in connection with this awful disaster. Reyes the unfortunate captain of the tug, who has left a widow and five children, had been absent on leave for 9 days, and, unfortunately, selected Sunday to return to his duty, as he was anxious to pay his men, for which purpose he changed a 200 pataconnote at the Tres Esquinas on his way to Barracas. He had hardly got on board when the tug blew up.

Shortly before the explosion, while the tug was being made fast to the bridge, the engineer of the Chocolate Factory, at South Barracas, passed across the bridge and noticed how the tug was trembling under the dangerously high pressure of steam in the boilers. He hailed the "Lydia's" engineer, and called his attention to the fact, but, as the latter took no notice of him, he hurried away, foreseeing the catastrophe, which occurred when he was only a square away. It appears that he said to the "Lydia's" engineer—"Take care you don't blow up with such a head of steam." Too fatally true prediction."

We hear Doctors Basabilbaso, Serna, Ocanto Quesada and others mentioned very favourably for their exertions and skill after the catastrophe; also Messrs. Mariani, Guillant and Arismendi. The different authorities behaved well and the traces of the disaster were removed with considerable celerity. All day long thousands flocked from all quarters of the city and lingered about the scene of the most appalling accident Buenos Aires has ever known.

MAJOR HOWARD'S REPORT.

DIRECTIONS FOR ENTERING BAHIA BLANCA.

A vessel bound for Bahia Blanca, no matter where it come from, should find out the coast extending between Punta Asuncion and Monte Hermoso, and sail along it at a distance of from 6 to 8 miles until it sights Monte Hermoso. This point is easily discerned, as there is an elevated pole on its top, 78 feet above the level of the sea, and visible in good weather at a distance of 15 miles.

The proximity to Monte Hermoso is not at all dangerous. The roads formed by the extremity of the Northern Bank and the coast are like a horse-shoe, and totally devoid of shallows, measuring nearly in their entire extension a depth of thirty feet. It is completely open to the winds of the second and third "cuadrante," and is not recommended as an anchoring ground during the summer and spring, even though its depth offers so much security.

Distant 12 miles from Monte Hermoso to the South, 17° to the East, the first buoy is placed in 32 feet of water; it is painted yellow, and visible in regular weather at a distance of five miles.

The buoy should be left to the larboard; and, though a buoy is visible behind it, the vessel should steer from it with bow to the N. 53° W., allowing for the wind and current, and will enter without any difficulty, the lead not marking less than 30 ft.

The other buoys, as the first one, should also be left to the larboard entering; they are painted red, and their elevated conic form, 11 ft. above the surface of the sea, makes them visible at a considerable distance, due to the atmospheric refraction, notwithstanding that the greatest distance which exists between one and the other is 6,500 metres, being 7,000 between the eastern extremity of the Northern Bank and Punta Sin Nombre (Nameless Point) a distance of 18 miles.

Every precaution is necessary in making for the third buoy. Bearing from Monte Hermoso to the S. 4° W., and a slight "abatimento" to the N. would be sufficient for the captain, without perceiving it, to mistake the channel, taking that marked in the English Admiralty Chart for that of the South, which at that height joins with the buoyed channel.

Passing this buoy, the depth gradually increases until the lead marks eight fathoms, but later on it decreases between the banks known as the "Gaucho" and "Toro," or at the last buoy, until it marks 6½ fathoms for a distance of not less than 1000 meters. Later on it increases rapidly until it reaches a depth of 13 fathoms, where the chain of banks which form the bar are passed, and from here the mariner can proceed without any fear, following the Punto Belgrano Coast, keeping at a convenient distance from the beach, which runs out more than a mile.

When the state of the atmosphere allows, the masts of the pontoon "Manuelita" can be seen projecting out of the water, at a distance of eight miles. This vessel is sunk in the spot known in Fitzroy's Chart as the "Gaucho Creek, the proportions of which have greatly diminished since he made his calculations.

Half a century has worked great changes in the state of the bar, and it is not strange that the "Saco del Gaucho" should have suffered an equal transformation.

The "Manuelita" sank by chance in the most dangerous position for the mariner, and to-day it serves as a sentinel, if unfortunately he should by any chance miss the buoy. Its masts notify him to keep clear, and these combined with the "Tripode" on the coast near Punta Sin Nombre (Nameless Point) should be sufficient for those who are not accustomed to enter here.

Completely clear of the buoys above mentioned, two anchoring grounds are met with—one parallel with the arroyo "Parejos" and the other in that of "Punta Alta." Both must be left to the larboard, and the second is known by a post perpendicularly placed at the northern extremity of the arroyo "Tres Ibrazas" (Three Fathom Creek).

This passed at a fair distance, bearing to the N.W. ¼ N., the mouth of a false channel is left to the larboard, and sailing in five fathoms of water as minimum, the mouth of the "Riacho" is entered, which conducts you to the anchoring ground facing "Sauce Chico," or "Naposta." There is a mast placed on both sides of the "Riacho," and its navigation for vessels drawing 15 ft. offers no difficulty whatever.

Note.—The courses are magnetic.

AN AMERICAN ON GLADSTONE.

Mr Gladstone is inclining more and more to the theory that a government of which he is the head ought not to be criticised. In fact, the United States system would apparently suit his present ideas much better than the English one—that is to say, of not permitting Cabinet officers to hold seats in the Legislature. It would be a very great convenience to all the Ministers if, during the next five or six weeks, they were relieved from the painful necessity of answering questions and giving explanations on points which they would rather should remain dark. Some day, perhaps, this change may be introduced in the political machinery here, together with the payment of members, for which a large section of the Radical party are already clamoring. Many men who have been very useful in working the caucus would be only too glad to go into Parliament if they could afford to sacrifice the time, but they cannot. With an allowance of £1,000 a year or so they would not hesitate to place their services at the disposal of the nation. It is very difficult to work hard all day and sit up in the House of Commons all night. Some members are trying to perform this feat, but the end is quite certain—they will die a few years sooner than if they spent their time in a rational manner. But with the salary paid to Congressmen, many workingmen and tradesmen would be able to put aside their regular business, at least to a great extent, and devote all their leisure to public affairs. No change is impossible in an age when a great and restless desire for change has seized upon the people, and therefore your readers must not be surprised if they hear before very long the proposal for payment to members of Parliament, based upon the liberal allowance given to members of Congress.

What troubles the Ministerialists most at the present time is the uncertainty with which Mr Gladstone envelopes all his intentions and plans. It is perfectly well understood that he is still meditating some great scheme for his own future—of late he has even allowed one or two obscure hints to that effect to drop from him in the House of Commons. But to none, not even to 'Herbert,' does he seem disposed to speak out plainly. He is always telling his colleagues and his friends that they must not look to have him with them very long, and yet there is no real evidence in any of his actions that he thinks of resigning office. Some say that during the last week or two he has listened more kindly than was his wont to the suggestion that a place should be made ready for him in the House of Lords. By that means he would still remain Prime Minister and still be the head of his party. One can understand, however, how a man so shrewd and adroit as Mr Gladstone should shrink from taking this step. Call him an earl and he would lose all his popularity to-morrow. No one would again describe him as the 'People's William' or the 'Grand Old Man.' The elder Pitt was ruined with the people when he accepted the Peerage, and precisely the same thing happened in the case of Lord Beaconsfield. The people resent the sight of their favourites clutching at all the honors within their reach. That is the light in which they regard it, no matter what may be the true motive for exchanging the popular House for the House of Lords. Mr Gladstone must be well aware of this peculiarity of his countrymen, and he would probably have less to regret afterwards if he retired at once from public life than if he suffered himself to be called Earl Gladstone and made a speech once a month in the House of Lords.

But there are other events pending—such, for instance, as the probable enlargement of the Cabinet, so as to admit of the recognition of the "claims" of several supporters of the Ministry. Among these proposed additions the name of Lord Rosebery is the most prominent. The fact is that everbody thought Lord Rosebery would take his place in the Cabinet long ago, and it was understood that Mr. Gladstone offered him that much-coveted position when he first entered upon office. Whether that was so or not I cannot say, having no information whatever on the subject which is not accessible to all the world, but it is certain that Lord Rosebery has long been marked out by public opinion for preferment. He is, however, a peer, and to be a peer is becoming a great disadvantage to a man, especially to a clever man, everywhere except in the social world—and what great good he gets out of it even there now-a-days it is not very easy to see. If, then, Lord Rosebery is to go into the Cabinet he will have to be coupled with a Radical, as there will be groans and murmurs from the Radical peers and platforms. The gentleman upon whom the choice will most probably fall is Mr. Trevelyan, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, who stands next in succession to Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Charles Dilke. He has always been an advanced Liberal, and is acknowledged to be a man of great administrative capacity. Moreover, he has the faculty of discerning the rising man before he has risen, and thus he was one of the first to see that Mr. Chamberlain was bound to push his way to the front. If any one has a right to a seat in the Cabinet, as representing the Radical element, it is Mr. Trevelyan. But why do people talk of a Radical to act as a counterpoise to Lord Rosebery? Is not the noble Lord himself a Radical as "progressive" as Mr. Chamberlain? So one has always understood. It cannot, therefore, be absolutely indispensable to introduce another Radical into the Cabinet at the same moment unless it be for the purpose of convincing the jealous "eight hundreds" that this is not an aristocratic Ministry and that Mr. Gladstone is not preparing to forsake his true friends, the masses. Already there are seven peers in the Cabinet and seven members of the Lower House. If, then, two more are to be added, there will be a grand total of sixteen and the proportion from each House will be the same.

The curious part of the matter is that no one seems to think this number too large. The business of the country could be as well conducted if the Cabinet were reduced to eight, and even then, under existing circumstances, there would only be one man who exercised any real authority. The Home Secretary is no more essential to the Cabinet, as a working machine, than the Postmaster-General, who does not sit in it. The Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, the President of the Board of Trade, the President of the Local Government Board—these three officials are not absolutely required in the inner councils of the Ministry. Now there is a talk of creating two new Cabinet offices—a Minister of Agriculture and a Minister of Justice. Everybody connected with a Ministry wants to be in the Cabinet, but in reality a large Cabinet is an obstruction to the despatch of genuine business. It would be interesting to learn the secret opinions of Mr. Gladstone on this point. Lord Beaconsfield "made" no great secret of his opinion, but he was a Tory, and therefore may be put out of court at once as having no right to be heard.

Again, why is it that amid all the changes now under consideration or in actual progress no one talks of reducing the House of Commons? What good purpose is answered by having so large a gathering of men to do that which half their number could do a great deal better? The full "quota" of members is 658, whereas the business of the United States gets itself done, so far as the House of Representatives is concerned, with considerably less than half this number. It may not be done to the satisfaction of everybody, but who can suppose that it would be so if the Representatives mustered 658 instead of 293? The House of Commons is too large and unwieldy to do the work required in modern times. There are too many "distinguished men" in it, all possessed with the idea that they have a permanent claim to be heard, and to be put in the Ministry on the very first opportunity—or rather in the Cabinet. Reduce the House to 300 members and the real business of the country would stand a much better chance of being transacted in a business-like manner.—New York World.

THE BUENOS AIRES GREAT SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY, LIMITED.

The ordinary general meeting of this company was held on Thursday at the Cannon-street Hotel; Mr. Frank Parish in the Chair.

Mr. C. O. Baker (the secretary) read the notice convening the meeting, and the report of the directors was taken as read.

The Chairman said he felt it necessary to make a few observations to point out that they were commencing the first year of their new system, making the fiscal year end on 30th June instead of 31st December; he thought, therefore, any comparisons with previous corresponding periods which they might make from the report required certain allowances. One effect of this change had been to throw into the June half of the year the large balances which were formerly carried into the half-year ending 31st December, and it would be remembered that their practice hitherto had been, on 30th June, to pay an interim dividend, which they had generally confined to the half of which they might fairly call the guaranteed 4 per cent., paying on 31st December all the balance over and above that as a bonus. At the end of 1881 they received 6 per cent in dividend and a bonus, and it happened, as a natural consequence of the change, that they had to introduce an intermediate period from the 31st Dec., 1881, to the 30th June, 1882, so as to commence fair from July to June. We call that intermediate period was donated as a distinct period on its own merits, and they paid the whole amount they had earned during the six months, which amounted to 6 per cent., so that for twelve months they received 12 per cent. He made this explanation to show that it did not mean that they had paid that dividend in any ordinary fiscal year, and, of course, it was now necessary that they should revert to the old system as soon as they could, and as a matter of prudence, they thought they should pay a fair amount on interim dividend, leaving whatever larger balances might accrue from their earnings to the second half of the year. This half-year they somewhat departed from that, feeling that it might have occasioned some disappointment to some of their new shareholders to have given them simply the half-year's dividend of 4 per cent., and they had therefore added to the 4 per cent. half of the year's bonus, making up 5 per cent. He thought that explanation would start them fairly. Referring to the report, it might possibly occur to some who had criticised it that it was not quite so brilliant as some previous ones, but there was in reality no room for doubt on the subject; and divesting the half-year of all the assistance it had received from exceptional circumstances, they would find that the result remaining was eminently satisfactory, and he might say promising, for the future, inasmuch, as from pure commercial sources, the railway had carried more goods at a very large reduction of rates, and had made a very fair increase of gross receipts. For instance, they would find that the increase of gross earnings was £45,000; if they deducted the amount which was represented by carriage of the company's material and company's telegraphing amounting to £37,000, they would find the increase of gross receipts was £8,000, and that was out of pure commercial traffic, in spite of a large reduction of rates; he thought that this ought to reassure them as to the progressive character of the traffic, and that during the past period they had shown as good results as could possibly be expected. In fact, although they naturally anticipated that the reduction of rates would be compensated for within a certain limited time, they could hardly have anticipated that the result would have come about so soon. Again, in treating of this increase of traffic, they would find that it was of a genuine character. There was nothing fictitious about it. It did not arise from an increased portion of a year's wool produce, which very often balanced one half-year with the other; it singularly enough happened that the amount of wool carried was about the same in both half-years, but the increase arose almost entirely in the outward goods, which meant supplies to the country of every kind, and indicated an extensive development in the country's business, increased powers of purchasing, increase of prosperity generally. There was also another point which was extremely satisfactory. It was this, that the rates they were now working at as well as the value of their money, were both fixed quantities. The money they received was subject to no fluctuation or depreciation, as the rates had been fixed by agreement with the Government "on a basis for a period of twenty years," therefore any further reduction of rates would be entirely at the option of the company, and naturally would be merely the outcome of increased prosperity, and he could only say he was sure the shareholders would agree to reductions when the time came, as they wished to behave as liberally to the Government and to the public as they had done in the past. That was, of course, an extremely satisfactory basis to start upon, and it would render future comparisons clearer. Hitherto they had depreciated currency and increased rates to meet it, and it had been very difficult indeed to show any fair comparison with ever-varying circumstances. In the passenger traffic there has been a large increase in the numbers of the second-class, and although they had reduced the fares of passengers considerably, to the extent of 11 per cent., still that had left a very fair amount of net profit, so that in both goods and passengers he thought they had shown very fair results indeed. On the other hand, with regard to their expenditure, it might appear that while they were showing progressive increase in their traffic, the expenses had also grown in almost larger ratio. Now, if that were really the case, their business would not be quite so sound as it really was; but there were circumstances which must be considered in that, and both the figures and the circumstances would be modified. In the first place, they would understand that they were dealing with really the first half of the year, and it had been customary in their expenditure to estimate certain charges and to adjust them at the end of the year; therefore the figures might not be quite correct. Until the end of the year they did not know exactly what the amount was. Now, the proportion of working expenses was represented in the report as nearly 52 per cent. It appeared large, certainly, and it might be lessened later on, but there were circumstances which must be fairly considered, and which were represented very strongly by the manager in his report. They had instituted a new and improved train service, far more costly than before. They were bound to do so. When the secretary and himself visited Buenos Ayres they found that there was a certain atmosphere of unpopularity about the company, and it was necessary they should meet the new state of things. It was necessary, in a business point of view, that the public should be better served, and therefore among other things they had established a very much more expensive and improved train service. That, coupled with reduced rates, naturally increased the percentage of working expenses. That was only natural, when they were carrying a larger bulk of goods for a smaller profit. There was another point, they had carried a large amount of the company's materials; some £10,000 was represented by the carriage of the company's stores and telegraphing; there was no profit on that £10,000, and deducting it would reduce the proportion of working expenses to about 50 per cent. But going still further, the whole amount of the company's material carried was about £37,000, and as the cost of working this was about £32,000, that would reduce the working expenses to about 45 per cent, which he did not think they could have very great cause to be dissatisfied with, although there might be room for improvement even there. They all thought that they would be able to work at a cheaper rate than that, but they were going through a rather exceptional period just now. There had no doubt been a heavy strain and pressure put upon all departments. There was a natural desire with the heads of administration to have everything put in order. They were, perhaps, going through rather an extravagant period; but they thought, when they started fairly, they would be able by and by to control the expenditure. The board had represented these things to the general manager, and felt sure he would co-operate with the other officers in giving his best assistance. He migh allude to their issue of debenture stock; he trusted the shareholders had been satisfied with the manner in which that was done. They had been in the habit of giving them the full benefit of share allotments, and if was only recently they had derived benefit from the issue of the Bahia Blanca shares. The debenture stock had been issued at 106, and in that they had considered the best interests of the shareholders, and the premium would go to strengthen their reserve fund, which was the backbone of their business. Fortunately they had present a colleague, Mr. Fair, who had returned only a few days ago from a long visit to the River Plate, and who had taken great interest in their new works. Mr. Fair had travelled all over the line, and had ascertained for himself the state of the company. He had been long connected with the country and knew the history of the company from the beginning. It was about seventeen years since this railway was opened, and it was really marvellous the transformation that had taken place in the country wherever this railway passed through during that short period. They had been most actively employed during the past twelve months in carrying out the new works. One section of the line to Olavarria had been opened. On the other side the Tandil extension of forty miles would be opened in the next month. The rails were laid far beyond Olavarria. At Bahia Blanca they had created a port, which was one of the best on the coast; there were ample facilities for landing goods, and it was far superior to any other port of the country. He thought they could not speak in too high terms of the great ability, activity, and zeal displayed by all their officers. In conclusion, the chairman moved the adoption of the report.

EDITOR'S TABLE

The awful catastrophe at Barracas on Sunday cast a gloom over the whole city yesterday, when the horrible details were published. We give them in another column. Yesterday, as well as on Sunday, thousands visited the scene of the accident. The immediate vicinity looks as if it had been bombarded, owing to the number of windows and doors smashed. The whole of Barracas shook as if an earthquake had occurred, and many at first thought such was the case. Every living soul in the Boca and Barracas rushed into the streets, and the excitement, even a mile from the Bridge, was tremendous. The immediate cause of the accident is not yet known, but the general impression is that there was far too little water in when the boiler blew up.

We call special attention to the general meeting of trustees and subscribers of the British Hospital, summoned for next Thursday, at 3 p.m., at the British Consulate. The object of the Committee in calling this meeting is to obtain formal authority for dealing with the question of a new hospital, for the building of which a large sum is already available, and the necessity for which is urgently felt, owing to the defective construction and arrangements of the present building. As the subject is one of vital interest to the British community, it is earnestly hoped that all who possibly can will make an effort to attend the meeting, as the Committee are most anxious that the expression of opinion should be as general as possible. The notice of this meeting has been in our columns for three weeks, and a copy has been sent to each trustee.

The political telegrams from Europe are decidedly interesting, not to say thrilling. The scrimmage which the Triple Alliance was formed to bring about may not be far off. Lord Dufferin's sudden departure from Stamboul has more in it than the mere affairs of Egypt, if the report be true that Turkey has joined the alliance. "Que diable va 't elle faire dans cette galère?" France appears to have got three stiffer jobs than she bargained for at Tonkin, in Madagascar and on the Congo. Is there a German Ambassador in Pekin? If so, China's preparations for war are intelligible. The Eastern Hemisphere is in a jolly nice state just now, and we in the Western may bless our stars for being in it.

The Royal Mail steamer Tamar and the Royal Mail steamer Derwent are both posted to sail on Friday next. Take note thereof, fashionable tourists for the Old World. The sailing of two Royal Mail steamers on the same day is unprecedented. Do they intend to run a race home? The Tamar takes some of our leading residents: Mrs. Quintana and family, Mr and Mrs. Hugh Duggan, Mr and Mrs. Robert Mackern and family, the Rev. Francis and Mrs. Gebbie, family and servants; J. B. Blair, N. N. Penrose, E. Udney, Miss McClean and servant, Miss A Kelly, Mr Le Rossignol and family, and, last not least, our esteemed friend and countryman Mr. John Rorke, so well and favourably known in this market as representative of Mr Terence Moore. Mr. R. expects to be back in about four months. We wish all the travellers a pleasant voyage and keen enjoyment of their tour.

We hope the Lord Mayor and the bigger half of the corporation had occasion to visit some of the outskirts of the city on Sunday. The passing of the Alps could scarcely be a more awe-inspiring task. Nothing but the overturning of the Municipal coach and the complete ruin of the state robes will cause re-dress. Always depend upon outraged dignity for an outrageous row.

A letter addressed to Mr. Robert Grant, St. Catherine's, Buenos Aires, South America, is lying for the owner at No. 69 Calle Cangallo.

The S.F.T.P.O.C.T.A don't seem to want money. An English lady member called on us yesterday to say that she is most anxious to pay her subscription, but can not find the Treasurer's address on the notice card sent to her. Still better news for the Treasurer is, that this good lady has a big list of new members for the Society. We tried to induce her to give us a few of them as new subscribers to the Standard, which would give them far more value for their money than the Society with eight initials, but she laughingly refused.

The Lord Mayor's Grotto and fountain were inaugurated on Sunday with tremendous success. The fountain is really splendid, worthy of London or Paris. There must have been at least 4,000 souls present. All the wealth and fashion of the city stood around the "jet d'eau," whose shining waters were blown over the crowd by the breeze. The Lord Mayor drove up in true London style, coach and four. President Roca and many of the Ministers were there, whilst fully 500 private coaches, all half-bred English horses, drew up on the side of the hill. Never before do we recollect the old Recoleta hill so crowded and so adorned. High Life in real earnest responded to Mr. Alvear's invitation. We thought of old Moses himself striking the rock, when the waters were turned on and shot up to Heaven, sparkling, wetting, shining and amusing the eclectic, or rather we should say, the æsthetic crowd that patronised so prized a scene.

It is easy to see how completely the talented proprietor of the Variedades, Mr. Tauban and his charming lady have gained the confidence and este

Cedulas A	100⅜
Cedulas E	84⅜
National Bank Shares	104½
National Bonds 5 o/o	73½

The market wears a very animated aspect, and even National Bank Shares looked active, owing to the fact that a well-known holder began to sell this morning. Under present circumstances a weak market means an active market, whilst a firm one means no business. Outsiders began to buy shares this morning, and the public is taking up fast all the Cedulas offered at the ring. Over three hundred thousand Cedulas were sold during official hours, and the Cedula King made great efforts to bear the market, but the stock resisted the pressure and bore a firm aspect in spite of the apparent weakness reflected in prices. About $2,000,000 of Series E has been sold since the beginning of the month, and the activity in operations continues unabated. It was rumored to-day that the Board of the Mortgage Bank had finally decided to issue Cedulas only on real estate that yielded some return; this measure, it is said, has been adopted, since the visit of the Board to La Plata, and the market applauds the idea, as it is a guarantee to the Bank and to the public. The Mortgage Bank has become the great discount bank of estancieros and holders of real estate, and the fact accounts for the immense business doing in the stock and the heavy applications made to the Board.

Several thousand Series A changed hands for cash at 100½-⅜. Some 50,000 Series E were sold for cash at 84½ to 84⅜, closing rate. Operations for the end of the month embraced 276,000 Series E; rates opened at 84⅜ and closed at 84½. The market closed with a firmer feeling in spite of the heavy push made to bear the market.

Over 1,400 shares were sold during official hours; a few changed hands for cash at 104⅜. Twelve hundred were sold for the end of the month; rates opened at 104⅜, but began to drop as a leading operator commenced selling; prices dropped to 104½ and closed at 104⅜. One hundred shares were sold for to-morrow at 104½.

Nothing is reported in exchange circles; the market is very quiet. A few thousand National 5 o/o were sold this morning at 73⅜.

A sale of 20,000 hectares in the Xth Section was registered on Saturday in the notary's office in the Provincial Government House. This land was sold for $1,300,000 ㌢, or at the rate of $173,000 ㌢ per league. Lands in the XIIth Section, a little higher up, were sold a fortnight ago at the rate of $350,000 ㌢ per league.

The Provincial Government of San Juan has granted to Messrs. J. Lloyd & R. D. Mackenzie the concession of the well-known Gualilan gold mines in that Province. The decree was signed on the 21st ult. by Governor Albaracin, and the concessionaires bind themselves to work the mines on a large scale before the expiration of two years.

The Provincial Revenue Office finds some difficulties in obtaining the names of holders of the "boletos" of National lands, located in the 2nd and 5th Sections. It has been decided to publish a notice requesting proprietors of land in both Sections to present their titles, and pay Contribucion Directa Tax according to a valuation of $80,000 ㌢ per league in the 2nd, and $30,000 ㌢ per league in the 5th Section.

The Lamport & Holt steamer Kepler has arrived in Montevideo. The Niger left Rio yesterday evening for the R. Plate.

Messrs. G. Gowland & Co., the well-known auctioneers, sold yesterday all the stock in the saladero of Barracas for $183,000 ㌢; also several building lots in the parish of San Cristobal for $185,000 ㌢.

Two thousand novillos are reported sold in the South of the Province at $450 ㌢ per head.

Mr Walter B. H. Drayson, representative of Messrs J Tylor & Sons, London, was welcomed on 'Change. This is his first visit to the Plate, he leaves shortly for India, but will soon return.

The Tamar passengers got out of quarantine this afternoon and came ashore at 5 o'clock.

The attention of the Provincial Government is called to the dreadfully flooded state of the lands about South Barracas:—Consequent on the late heavy rains the Riachuelo is bringing down all the waters from the great Matanzas basin or valley, and as their only outlet is through the Puente de Barracas, a very narrow outlet for such a volume of water. The low camps, extending from Lomas to Flores, are flooded, also the Pueblo Valentin Alsina and adjoining lands. All communication with town by the tramway Alsina is cut off.

If were time the National or Provincial Governments, or both did something to ameliorate the lot of the dwellings in this district. Subjective as they are to be under water after every heavy rain fall; why not put the Dutch Engineer Waldorp to study the subject?

A large transaction in exchange on Antwerp is reported as done on Saturday, 600,000 francs at 5.16. One of the private banks taker. We hear that the Italian Bank is also a large taker in the market, and took a good round amount on Saturday at same rates.

Rosario is going ahead.—Another new English house started up there, a branch of the leading city firm M. Forrester & Co. We have no doubt it will do a large business and have much pleasure in announcing that Mr. Treacher is the manager.

The sales at the ring during official hours were:—

Cedulas—
For cash A 38,000 at 100⅜-⅝
For cash E 51,500 at 84½-⅝-⅜-⅝
For June 30th E 270,000 at 84⅜-½

Llamamos la atencion de los capitalistas del pais, sobre la gran propiedad utilizada para el dique de la Colonia, consta de treinta mil varas cuadradas sobre el mismo puerto de la Colonia con estension hasta la lengua del agua y de ahi hasta el canal como queda marcado en el plano, siendo la parte la mas profunda del puerto de la Colonia, pues basta saber que la fragata inglesa de guerra "Volage" ha estado anclado a una distancia de una cuadra y media de la costa.

Esta concesion fue hecha por el Gobierno Oriental a perpetuidad consta de una casa habitacion con oficinas y dos barracas de material, cada una de ellas tiene capacidad para tres mil fardos de lana.

Como se ve, esta es una empresa de gran porvenir, no tan solo por la concesion de la parte del canal que es profundo como tambien el puerto el mas seguro en el Rio de la Plata.

Se dará principio a la venta por orden de su dueño el Sr. D Diego N. Carman, por falta de salud y tener que ausentarse del pais, de todas las existencias de la cabaña "El Lago."
300 animales vacunos Durham, importados y nacidos en el pais, entre las que se encuentran las celebres vacas Niñitas premiadas con los primeros premios en las Exposiciones de la Sociedad Rural Argentina y Continental, como tambien la madre y demas familia de dichos animales que no han estado en exhibicion.
Los toros Waterloo Grand Duke y Endimion son los que estan actualmente al servicio de la cabaña; el primero importado de Inglaterra, por el Sr Downes, y el segundo remitido por el Sr Elia, por el cual se nos pago 25,000 ps., siendo uno de los animales quemas han llamado la atencion de los criadores mientras estuvo en nuestra casa y que con sobrada razon escribio el Sr Elia, "que mandaba animales en los cuales tenia la seguridad de perder dinero" probandolo el hecho de no haber repetido sus remesas.
200 ovejas y carneros Lincoln, siendo una parte de ellos importados expresamente para esta cabaña, de la del Sr Clark en Inglaterra como tambien los padres que las sirven. Estos animales seria demas recomendarlos, pues ningun criador de esta raza en el pais, ha alcanzado los precios obtenidos por esta cabaña.

Este establecimiento solo dista una legua de San Fernando, lo cual facilita el embarque de animales para los rios o el Estado Oriental casi sin gastos y la proximidad a la ciudad facilita el trasporte de los animales por cuales quiera de los Ferro Carriles.
Siendo todas las vacas de esta cabaña mansas, pueden ser destinadas para leche o para raza.

BULLRICH & CIA.
A los Senores Hacendados.
Los participamos que el Jueves 20 de Setiembre, queda fijado para el remate de este año de los carneros Negrete Argentino procedentes de la cabaña "El Rosario" de los Srs. Francisco Chas e hijos.
Los recordamos que la raza nueva Negrete Argentino ha sido obtenida mediante una observacion concienzuda de treinta años sobre lo que conviene mas al pais por el tamaño, por la robustez y por la lana cuya abundancia largo y finura no dejan nada que desear encontrando nuestras palabras su mejor comprobacion en los productos de la cabaña El Rosario, vendidos o exhibidos hasta la fecha.
Los Sres Chas procurando que los compradores ahorren gastos de cuidado etc. han fijado el espresado dia para el remate a fin de que los animales puedan ser empleados inmediatamente de adquiridos (1 de Octubre) desde luego garantimos que los carneros que venderemos son sobresalientes, como tambien que de igual modo que en los años anteriores, sera el unico remate que los Sres. Chas daran en el presente año.

Remataremos con la base arriba fijada y dinero de contado por orden terminante de su propietario:
El campo arriba designado situado en el partido de Ajo, compuesta su area de 600 cuadras cuadradas con poblaciones de ranchos y aguadas permanentes; teniendo buenos montes de tala y coronillo.
Sus pastos son todos tiernos y especiales para la cria de ovejas.
Es parte de los reputados y afamados campos conocidos por "Los Nogales" propiedad que fue del finado Sr. D Martin Campos quien los pobló hace mas de medio siglo.
Creemos inutil llamar la atencion de los que se dedican a la cria de ovejas sobre la bondad de estos campos pues dificilmente encontraran mejor para ese objeto.
El precio fijado para la venta es de 450 ps. la cuadra, no esta en relacion con el verdadero valor de esta clase de campos y mucho menos comparado con los precios que se pagan en los partidos fronterizos.

The Colony in Gainza
Lands payable at eight years' credit without interest.
We have just concluded the sale of the 56 leagues of land we offered in Gainza at $250,000 % per league, payable 10 o/o or say $25,000 % cash, and the balance in eight yearly payment of $28,125 % without interest; last payment comes due in 1891; 28 purchasers of all nationalities bought these 56 leagues.
The land is noted for its goodness, and Clark's railway from Buenes Aires to Valparaiso passes near it, and will place settlers within reach of this city in one day.
The purchasers of these lands will probably double their capital in five years, although they have eight years to pay for them; because in the hands of 28 proprietors, in 5 years time we shall see all the elements of pastoral and agricultural progress firmly fixed in this colony.
We have still some 20 Leagues for sale, and we invite sheep and cattle farmers whether half-leaguers or ten-leaguers, to come to our office to 178 Calle San Martin to see the plans and study this business.
